Resolution and Suprema Court Decision-Question of Jurisdiction-To se More Argument

Habeas corpus arguments were continued yesterday before the Supreme Court. in the forenoon Attorney General Smith concluded his argument begun the day before. He was followed by Judge Carter, who in a strong speech, upheld the action of respondent Collector General McStocker. Mr. Thurston then took the floor and completed the argument for the defense The contentions on both sides of the case were based principally on the decision recently made by Chief Justice Judd, the counsel for the petition ers presenting the decision as a strong argument in their favor, while the attorneys for the respondent gave it a close analysis and endeavored to make some of the points in law there stated turn directly against the ultimate con-clusions reached in the document. Mr Thurston made a careful argument on the wording of the Newlands' resolution. He contended that there three classes of Chinese: First-"There shall be no further immigration Chinese into the Hawaiian Islands, which constitute one class; Secondexcept upon such conditions as are now or may hereafter be allowed by the laws of the United States," which make up the second class; Thirdthose who are on the Islands now and who compose the third class." Those who are now seeking admission, he ciaimed, belong to the first class, for they have not complied with conditions which the resolution expressly states must be met. All the necessary machinery, he contended, had been supplied for enforcing the law against this class of Chinese, therefore the law should be executed. In answer to the argument advanced by the opposing side that the laws could not be extended to these Islands in part and not as a whole. Mr. Thurston claimed that a law could be extended in plecemen providing the part enforced contained within itself the machinery for its ex-

Mr. Thurston took up the question of court jurisdiction. It was his belief that cases in admiralty and all matters which can be heard only by Federal courts, could properly be before the Supreme Court of Hawaii with the exception of Chinese ques tions, because the Chinese restriction laws are the only laws which the res olution provides shall go into immediate effect. The attorney argued the question at length and made extensive quotations from United States Supreme Court decisions.

Mr. Silliman answered the contentions of Mr. Thurston, putting stress on the fact that no Federal court had yet been established in Hawaii and that the Supreme Court of Hawaii was the last court of resort, and, further, Congress intended to work no such injustice as that for which Mr. Thurston

Mr. Robertson, who followed Mr. Silliman in answering the arguments conduct of the World's Parliament of Mr. Thurston, was, owing to the Religions in Chicago in 1893, and h late hour, unable to complete his remarks, but will be heard again tuts

FIRST TENNESEE.

Advertiser Attention to the floys is Acknowledged.

(Clarksville, Tenn., Chronicle)

We have before us a copy of The Pacific Commercial Advertiser, published at Honolulu November 9, for which we have to thank a friend and regular reader, Mrs. T. D. Garvin, sister of our townsman W. F. Coulter. Mrs. Garvin is the wife of a missionary of the Christian church, who, for a number of years has been stationed at Hono lulu, and who, with his devoted wife is taking the liveliest interest in the Tennessee troops who have stopped there en route to Manila.

The newspaper above alluded to is a 10-page daily crammed full of news and live advertising, showing that the Honolulians are progressive in the matter of printer's ink. The eye, how-ever, is at once attracted to a life size cut of Col. W. C. Smith, of the First Tennessee, U. S. V., and that of his son, the Sergeant-Major of the Regiment, which appears on the first page of the paper. It represents the Colonel reading an order to his son. In connection with this cut The Commercia Advertiser pays to Col. Smith a nigh tribute both as a soldier and citizen. Proceeding, the journal comments up on the boys of the First Tennessee.

While in New York recently, Mr. R. W. Shingle, the Exposition Commissioner of Hawaii, was fortunate enough to interest in the Islands Mr. Marshall, the manager of McClure's Syndicate and of the American Press Syndicate. For these two circuits Mr. Shingle furnished a well considered article on Hawaii that was published in leading papers of these cities: St. Louis, Cincinnati, Kansas City, Denver, Omaha, Des Moines, Chicago, Buffalo, Minneapolis, St. Paul. New York, Phil-adelphia and Washington. The article is of the same tenor as J. F. Brown's contribution to the Advertiser, with

Mrs. Harry Gillig has sent her dogs away for winter seconsion, but the fact that there will be a creme de la creme bench show at Sherry very shortly, precludes the idea. Mrs. Gillig's dogs are prize-winners, and she delights in the blue ribbons they bring home after a show. A society reporter pen pla-tures the fair young Californian blonde in these words: "She is to be seen every night at the play or at some of the new restaurants where every one goes to try the mushrooms stewed under glass. Mrs. Gillig always wears her hair very high pompadour, and her dress tight-fitting and one mass of spangles, resembling the attire of the be tall and thin and not short or stout, or otherwise the effect is a bit outre. CUBAN CONTROL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Maj. Gen. Brooke arrived in Washington from Fortress Monroe today and was clos-eted for more than an hour in consultation with Secretary Alger. United States north of Mason and Dix- then, in company with Adjutant Gen-War Department it was formally an-nounced that the President had designated him to be military governor of the island of Cuba, a new post, which carries with it control over the mill tary and civil branches of the island formerly exercised by the Captain General under the Spanish regime.

Each of the six provinces will have its own military governor, just as Gen. Wood is now military governor of the province of Santiago, but all of these will receive their instructions directly from Maj. Gen. Brooke, who is in supreme authority on the island. Thus, in Havana, Gen. Ludlow, who will be governor of the city, will be answerable to Gen. Lee, the governor of the province of Havana, who in turn will be answerable to Maj. Gen. Brooke, the governor of the island.
